

Acute hepatitis due to isoniazid. There is marked inflammation with hepatocyte rosette formation and lobular disarray. There is also an area of confluent necrosis (N) with pigmented macrophages.