

Microvesicular steatosis due to fialuridine toxicity: The hepatocytes are swollen and pale. At this magnification the individual vacuoles cannot be seen. There are no confluent areas of necrosis and very little inflammation.