

Figure 3.2. Cross section through a phototrophic mat in Sippewissett salt marsh (Woods Hole, MA). Green-brown cyanobacteria are found at the surface, followed by a pink layer of purple sulfur bacteria and a black layer of sulfate-reducing bacteria. Courtesy of Kurt Hanselmann.